

Animation Tax Relief (ATR)

What is ATR?

ATR was introduced in April 2013 to encourage the production of animations within the UK. ATR is based on the Film Tax Relief scheme introduced in 2007 and subsequently extended to other creative sectors industries including High-end TV, Children's TV, Video Games, Theatre, Orchestra and Museums and Galleries.

How does ATR work?

ATR works by enhancing expenditure incurred in the development process thereby creating an additional deduction. This additional deduction will either reduce profit, or, create or extend a loss. Where the additional deduction creates or extends a loss, HMRC allows this loss to be surrendered for a payable tax credit. Therefore, by claiming ATR, a company will either reduce their Corporation Tax liability or receive a payable tax credit.

To be eligible for ATR a company must:

- ✓ be incorporated in the UK or have a permanent establishment that falls within the charge to UK corporation tax
- ✓ be actively engaged in production, planning and decision making during the pre- production, principal photography and postproduction stages of the animation
- ✓ directly negotiate contract and pay for rights, goods and services relating to the animation.

An animation will qualify if:

- ✓ it passes the cultural test or qualifies as an official co-production;
- ✓ it is intended for broadcast on TV or the Internet
- ✓ it consists of moving or still images or of legible text or a combination of those things
- ✓ at least 10% of the total production costs relate to activities in the UK
- ✓ the animation may be mixed content, e.g. including drama or documentary sections. However, in order to qualify as an animation programme at least 51% of the core expenditure must be on animation production expenditure.

An animation will not qualify if:

- x it is an advertisement or promotional programme
- x is a news, current affairs or discussion programme
- x is a quiz or game show, panel show, variety show or similar programme
- x consists of or includes an element of competition or contest
- x is produced for training purposes.

Passing the Cultural Test

The Cultural Test is points-based, with sections relating to content, cultural contribution, location, and cast and crew. Animations need to achieve at least 16 from a possible 31 points.

The sections are:

- Cultural content
- Cultural contribution
- Cultural hubs
- Cultural practitioners

Qualifying co-productions.

There must be a UK production company responsible for all UK elements of the production from beginning to completion.

There must be corresponding production companies in the other co-producing party countries.

Programmes, including those made under official co-production treaties must reach a minimum UK spend requirement of 10%.

Which expenditure qualifies for enhancement?

Expenditure qualifying for enhancement is called Core expenditure and includes expenditure incurred on:

- ✓ Pre-production
- ✓ Principal photography and
- ✓ Post- production.

Non-qualifying or non-core expenditure include costs relating to:

- x Development
- x Distribution and
- x other non-production activities.

How is ATR calculated?

A Production Company can claim an additional deduction based on its enhanceable expenditure, at the lesser of: -

- 80% of total core expenditure
- the actual core expenditure incurred in the UK.

The additional deduction either reduces the profit and therefore the Corporation Tax due, or where the additional deduction creates a loss, allows that loss to be surrendered to HMRC for a tax credit paid at the rate of 25%.

How is ATR claimed?

ATR is claimed through the Company Tax system which means that claim must be made in a Company Tax Return or an amendment to a Company Tax Return.

Claims must include computations in respect of all income received, as well as core and non-core expenditure.

A simple example to demonstrate the benefit of claiming ATR

	Without ATR	With ATR
Total Income from the animation	£125,000	£125,000
Total Expenditure incurred on the animation	£110,000	£110,000
Profit / (Loss)	£15,000	£15,000
Profits assessable for Corporation Tax	£15,000
Corporation Tax due (@19%)	£2,850
Additional Deduction (estimated)		£60,000
Deemed Loss for tax credit purposes		£45,000
Surrendered for payable tax credit		£45,000
Tax credit @ 25%		£11,250

In this example, the company has turned a profit of £15,000 to a 'loss' of £45,000 by claiming ATR. The 'loss' is surrendered to HMRC for a payable tax credit of £11,250.

Testimonials

"I am so pleased and relieved that Graham got in touch with me about Theatre Tax Relief. So far, Graham has claimed nearly £100,000 in tax credit for us. This is not only an enormous benefit and can be ploughed back into the work that we do but it would have been extremely short-sighted of us not to be claiming the money that is due to us. Graham has made the whole process so simple and easy. I cannot recommend him highly enough". Sarah Gobran, Co-Founder & Producer of The Guildford Shakespeare Company

"NCO engaged Graham at the start of 2019 and has developed a wholly positive and ongoing relationship ever since. Not only has Graham increased our understanding of OTR and how it applies to NCO, he has taken all the stress and strain away from the process. His previous experience as a tax specialist at HMRC has proved invaluable as has his ability to explain the complexities to us in a way we can understand! I cannot recommend Graham more highly". Sophie Lewis, Managing Director of the National Children's Orchestras of Great Britain

"It was a pleasure working with Graham on our claim for Film Tax Credit for 'Stuffed'. For independent creators working in Film and TV, the Tax Credit is a vital part of making your film a reality. Graham is an assured and calm voice in the often-intimidating world of tax. I'd highly recommend Graham to my colleagues working in Film and TV". Carys Lewis, writer and director of the 2019 BAFTA Cymru Nominee short film Stuffed

"I found Graham and Creative Tax Reliefs through a Google search as we had a client that was eligible for Theatre Tax Relief (TTR). I and a colleague had read through HMRC'S guidance a number of times and felt confident that we understood how it worked, however, we had no experience in claiming TTR. It seemed a no-brainer to work with Graham because Graham, as a former Creative Tax Reliefs specialist with HMRC, knew how to prepare and present claims to HMRC, would be certain of the calculations, knew where the boundaries were and would achieve maximum benefit for the client. We prepared the accounts and submitted the CT600 as per usual with input from Graham whilst he liaised directly with HMRC'S Creative Industries Unit in respect of the client'S TTR claim. The client received their tax credit without issue and in an amount greater than expected. Our client was delighted as were we and we look forward to working with Graham going forward". Ian Bragger, Partner at Harris & Co
